Working with CVT

Confidential Care – We adhere to strict professional standards and the privacy of our clients is preserved.

Comprehensive Care and Team

Approach – Our team of psychotherapists and interpreters provide individualized comprehensive care. Together we look at the whole person and family, focusing on what our clients need to heal their mind, body, and spirit.

Services are Free – We do not charge clients for our services but we do bill insurance when possible. No one will be turned away due to inability to pay or lack of insurance.

Interpreters – We work with a group of specially trained interpreters who understand our program and maintain the same confidentiality policy as other CVT staff.

Psychotherapy

Many torture survivors feel scared, worried, sad, or hopeless. Some have nightmares and trouble sleeping. Some feel tired or weak, lack confidence, or have difficulty trusting others.

A psychotherapist can help a survivor of torture gain control over these feelings and help clients restore feelings of trust and hope.

Many torture survivors have difficulty making good use of social services because of their unique needs. A CVT psychotherapist will help ensure that clients receive extra support and care coordination that takes the effects of torture into account.

GETTING STARTED WITH CVT

Our goal is to help clients and their families recover from physical and psychological trauma caused by torture. Survivors of torture can and do recover from the traumas they suffered. They are capable of rebuilding their lives and can even go on to thrive in their various communities.

During a client's first call with CVT, we will explain the details of our program and ask for specific information to determine if our services are a good fit for the client's needs. If so, we will schedule an appointment to discuss working together.
